REPUBLIC SPECIAL. Chicago, Sept. Z.—Dispatches to the Record-Herald from the great com-producing States of the West and South, nearly all of them based on the latest information in the hands of the State boards of agriculture and labor bureaus, indi-cate that the total crop of the country will be 2,245,009,000 bushels. These figures are an even hundred million bushels less than the total crop indicated by the Government report, which contemplated conditions up to September 1. There are current a dozen estimates on the crop, some by field experts, others by trade papers and statisticians, and still others by railroads. These calculations range from 1,900,000,000 bushels by H. V. Jones and James J. Hill, to 2,500,000,000 by the Corn Products Company.

The average of the several estimates is 2,300,000,000, or 54,000,000 bushels over the resent finding of the Record-Herald. Frost has done very little damage to the crop. Even South Dakota, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Iowa report that the impairment from this source is hardly worth mentioning in considering the yield as a

South Dakota dispatches say 90 per

South Dakota dispatches say 90 per cent of the crop is to-night beyond any possible harm from cold weather. Iowa figures that not to exceed 2 per cent of the corn is damaged, and Nebraska Labor Bureau officials estimate that 95 per cent of the grain in the fields is immune.

On this question of possible injury by frost, local opinions diverge widely. Advices from cities of Iowa, Northern Nebraska, Minnesota and North Hinois are that fully 20 per cent of the crop is suaceptible to severe impairment. These views are interpreted as reflecting purely local conditions, and not applicable to the State as a whole.

WESTERN CROP TWO WEEKS LATE. It is agreed, however, that the crop of the Western country is from ten days, to two weeks lates than usual; the retardation being attributable to heavy rains and floods in the planting season, and to exceptionally cool weather throughout the summer. In hundreds of localities light frosts were welcomed because they queekened the ripening and hardening process.

It is only in comparison with midsummer expectations that the crop, as full-cated by the advices, is small. In only two years of the last sixteen, according to official data. Is a crop of 2.286,000,000 bushels.

country. The Count seemed especially struck with the fact that it is possible for one to spend five nights in a Pullman sleeping car in this country. In this connection it might be said that many of the countries represented at the conference can be crossed in a few hours by fast train travel.

Even to the British parliamentarians the vast extent of the United States was a revelation. The longest express run in Engiand is from Londen to Aberdeen, requiring eleven hours, while the members of the union were whisked across the United States to Denver, the trip requiring more than two days and nights, and then informed that they were just on the western borders of the Louisiana Purchase and that there were kingdoms beyond the Rockles.

One thing especially struck the distinguished visitors—they found many of their several nationalities in the various sections visited. When they realized hous sections visited.

tinguished visitors—they found many of their several nationalities in the various sections visited. When they realized how much their own races had contributed to the development of the wonderful resources of the country, their astonishment was very marked. It seemed to cheer them greatly when they came in contact with those who themselves or whose parents had come out from the fatherlind and embraced the opportunities presented to them in the land of the free.

VISIT TO MOUNT VERNON.

One of the most touching things that transpired during the stay at the capital city occurred on the trip to Mount Verson. On that memorable eccasion, while the delegates gathered together at the entrance to the tomb of Washinston, Philip Stanhope, president of the British narilamentary group, whose sire, as well as those of the other British members in attendance, had fought against General Washinston, entered the tomb and placed on the sarcophagus containing the remains of the "Father of his Country" a magnificent by weeth decorated with cut flowers. An attached card bore the following words:

cent ivy wreath decorated with cut flowers. An attached card bore the following words:

"Placed by the British group of the Interparliamentary Union upon the tomb of George Washington, son of their own row, in respectful admiration of his noble lifeand illustrious services to his country and to the world."

An especial significance attaches to this gracious act, as it shows how thoroughly and entirely the spirit of sysentment has left the British heart, though it once burned with a real that would not down.
Those who were privileged to be present at this tender caremony find it difficult to express their exact feelings.

Another touching incident of the stay of the peace delegates, which was purely spontaneous, having been planned only shortly beforehand, was the visit of a party to the Washington statue on the east plaza of the Capitol building. The party carried several heautiful floral wreaths and evergreens, with which they adorred
the figure. This second tribute to the memory of George Washington also excited much favor this comment when it became generally known.

RESULTS SATISFYING.

RESULTS SATISFYING.

Many whose opinions are well worth considering freely express the belief that considering freely express the belief that it was a spiendid thing to have invited the Interparliamentary Union to hold its twelfth annual conference at St. Louis, and that, even from a purely commercial standpoint, the appropriation of $60.00 to entertain the distinguished foreigners will prove to have been a very wise investment. When these noted statesmen return to their several homes, it will be to convey to their people a larger and better impression of the United States than they could get in any other way.

It will be a pleasure to the people of St. Louis to remember that one of their own citizens. Representative Richard Bartholdt, who was honored at the conference by being elected president of the union—is responsible for the visit of the European statesmen to the United States.

Another thing that will afford pleasure to the great rank and file of American citizenship is the fact that William Randal Cremer, a member of the British Parliament and the originator of the union was once a carpenter and a noted labor unionist.

This will be the first appearance in honor of the occasion. The isorrotes have Several thousand citizens of Louisville
